Center for Optimal Adult Development (COAD)

The Center for Optimal Adult Development (COAD), set to launch in August 2010, seeks to become an active agent in narrowing the gap between the rich discourse of academic and scientific theory and those practices & techniques which truly assist in an adult's development. For more information about this topic, or to schedule a conversation with Timothy Wachtel, please e-mail The Center for Optimal Adult Development at info @ optimaladult.org.

Vision Quest for Transformative Leaders, Healers, & Evolutionaries

September 11-19, 2010 there will be a Vision Quest program specifically designed for individuals who are engaged in transformative leadership, healing, and conscious evolution.

http://www.vitalmedicine.com/Vital_Medicine/Vital_Medicine_-_Wilderness_Immersion_Programs.html

The vision quest for transformative leaders, healers, and evolutionaries is an opportunity to purposefully step out of the momentum of our lives, our work, and our service - to give ourselves and the world the gift of our own humble inquiry into our deepest truth. As we intimately encounter wild nature we find that the reflection of the earth's vitality around us, nurtures and awakens our own source of creativity within. We develop a personal relationship with the land, and as we do so our capacity to listen deepens. The collective wisdom found beneath our feet and within ourselves begins to intimately inform our sense of self, community, and the nature of our service in the world.

Note: Vital Medicine is co-sponsoring this program with Rites of Passage, a non-profit based in California. Please click on the link to learn more about this inspiring organization. <http://www.ritesofpassagevision-quest.org/>

Leaders:

Mike Bodkin, M.S., MFT, has been the Executive Director of Rites of Passage since 1987.
Dana Carman, one of Vital Medicine's faculty members.

When: September 11-19, 2010. We'll begin at 10 am on Saturday, September 11 and end by noon on Sunday, September 19.

Where: Inyo Mountains, Southern California—high desert.

How to register: Download the registration form from Rites of Passage website (www.ritesofpassagevision-quest.org), and follow the instructions on the form. Please note: the quest will be limited to ten participants by an application process. Apply early if you wish to join!

9th Transformative Learning Conference

Athens, Greece, May 28th & 29th, 2011

The theme for the conference is Transformative Learning in Time of Crisis: Individual and Collective Challenges. Proposal deadline is 1 Nov. 2010; paper deadline is 15 April 2011. In addition to sessions dealing with individual and collective experiences of crisis, proposals are invited on all dimensions of research, theory and practice dealing with transformative learning. We invite you to submit proposals in four categories: paper presentations, innovative experiential sessions, symposia and roundtable. Although English is the official language of the conference, there will be translation in Greek and French during the plenary sessions. Papers, experiential sessions, symposia and roundtables proposals and abstracts have to be submitted in English.

Fourth Advanced International Colloquium on Building the Scientific Mind

7-11 March 2011
Stellenbosch, South Africa,

A dialogue among the disciplines organized by the Learning Development Institute, in collaboration with Sustainability Institute, Stellenbosch, South Africa as well as in association with Fundación Cultura de Paz Universe Awareness (UNAWA) United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)

This fourth colloquium follows in the footsteps of three prior Building the Scientific Mind colloquia, all of them under the patronage and/or with the support of UNESCO, namely BtSM2009, held in Cairo, Egypt, in May 2009; BtSM2007, held in Vancouver, Canada, in May 2007; and BtSM2005, held in The Hague, The Netherlands, in May 2005. This fourth colloquium is deliberately being planned to take place in South Africa so as to favor participation from sub-Saharan Africa, and countries in the southern hemisphere in general, while continuing the practice of the past colloquia to discuss issues regarding the scientific mind in a global perspective. In other words, participation from all parts of the world will be encouraged and we hope to see many familiar faces from the past as well as many new ones. We wish to discuss implications for the building of the scientific mind in the perspective of the lead theme for the colloquium, Learning for Sustainable Futures.

Year 2 : The Future of Love - Evolutionary Integral Relationships
December 29, 2010 - January 2, 2011 | Pacific Grove, CA | Asilomar

The Essence of Relationship is Love

Some hold Love to be the animating core of all of reality. Love is the Eros that drives evolution, even as it is the joy that moves our heart and fills our being. And, put simply: if all levels of reality evolve, then love must evolve as well!

The Heart of Conscious Leadership

Pacific Integral's Four-day
Transformative Leadership Seminar
Cleveland, OH
Oct 28-31, 2010

Four days that will open your heart, expand your mind, and help you realize your greatest capacities as a leader and human being.

- * Evolving Levels of Leadership - Learn how effective leaders integrate personal, organizational and inter-systemic objectives. Develop the capacity to see a bigger picture and handle greater complexity.
- * Developing Trust, Authenticity & Integrity - Deepen your capacity to give and receive feedback. Recognize unconscious blocks to personal and organizational effectiveness. Live your values and influence others through your own life as an example. Recognize and encourage the talents and potential within others.
- * Organizational and Collective Creativity - Learn how individuals and human systems collectively create the present and future. Step into leading transformative change with the greatest impact for the greatest depth and span.
- * Leadership from the Future - Identify emerging and future relationships in the midst of constant change. Learn the importance of managing and developing your state (mood, stress level, etc.) to leadership effectiveness and personal happiness. Glimpse possibilities and develop a plan to realize them. Become a leader you would follow.

LEADERSHIP OF SUSTAINABLE SYSTEMS A MASTER OF ARTS IN ORGANIZATIONAL SYSTEMS

The MA in Organizational Systems, Leadership of Sustainable Systems (LSS) program prepares compassionate, committed and effective leaders to address the pressing issues of sustainability in the 21st century. It makes a unique contribution to the growing field of sustainability education by focusing on the human dimensions of sustainability such as the intersection of human needs, behaviors, and cultures within the context of our natural and designed environments. Despite the pressing challenges of our time, this is also a moment of opportunity for bridging the divides between profit, people, and planet.

KATHIA CASTRO LASZLO, PHD

Has been active in the sustainability field for 15 years as an educator, researcher, consultant and social entrepreneur. She is a Saybrook alumna and a Fulbright scholar from Mexico. KLASZLO@SAYBROOK.EDU

The Global Transforming Ensemble

The Global Transforming Ensemble initiative is a collaborative effort between senior researchers and consultants that focuses on developing and actualizing presence-centered evolutionary leadership in communities and organizations – across all sectors of society and all continents.

Our belief is that this new form of leadership is already at work in various parts of the world, yet needs to be more consciously practiced and collectively disseminated – through personal contacts, exchanges, and larger-scale experiments – to reach a tipping point in humanity’s evolutionary journey.

Our approach is to involve, connect, and support community and organizational leadership through a web-enabled Leadership Commons.

We invite you to participate in our web-based research to investigate the relationship between presence-centered evolutionary leadership and vibrant communities. As a first step, please complete a 20-minute survey for one or two groups or communities that you are part of by using the following link: <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/85LRC5X>

If you would like to learn more about the Global Transforming Ensemble and the research, please contact Alain Gauthier at the following email address: alaingauthier@coreleadership.com

3rd International Alliance for Childhood Conference

October 13-16, 2010

During this four-day conference in Budapest, Hungary, the subject of “Childhood in Balance” will be explored, a theme meant to encompass all the formative years, from birth until adulthood.

Dr. Beck’s lecture, titled Smart Kids: Discovering, Developing and Nurturing the Natural Intelligences in Children is slated for Saturday, October 16, under the program rubric “What Action Can We Take?” The conference focus is especially close to Dr. Beck’s heart, and for some time now he has been advocating a change in the US national slogan from “No Child Left Behind” to Each Child to Full Potential.

2010 Summit - 'Rethinking Leadership'

Boston, USA.

The theme for this Summit is "Rethinking Leadership". Themes of earlier Summits have been "Witness the Birth of a New Discipline", "Making New Connections" and "Toward Integration".

Improvements to the 2010 program include:

- * Better integration of neuroscience and leadership research with jointly delivered sessions
- * More leadership researchers, with professors from Columbia, MIT & Vanderbilt
- * Greater practitioner focus with special 'practitioner sharing' sessions
 - * Free audio of breakout sessions so you don't miss a thing
 - * New lunchtime 'meet the scientist' sessions every day
 - * Full 3 day program (for the price of 2.5 days previously)
 - * More time for fun and informal networking every day

For more information contact us at summits@neuroleadership.org or call Janelle Light on 1 (914) 502-0108 (U.S. Eastern)
