

Integral Leadership Review

Volume X, No.4

August 2010

Leadership Quotes

“The man who occupies the first place seldom plays the principal part.”

“Napoleon affords us an example of the danger of elevating one’s self to the absolute, and sacrificing everything to the carrying out of an idea.”

“In nature we never see anything isolated, but everything in connection with something else which is before it, beside it, under it and over it.”

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

“It is only hereafter in history that the truth, long suppressed through ignorance, vanity, or a wise discretion, makes its appearance, and then it certainly casts a lustre on the army and its leader, but it can then do nothing more by its moral influence for events long past.

Never forget that no military leader has ever become great without audacity.

Karl von Clausewitz